

Outhouses 2004

Sherman Hines was born in Liverpool, Nova Scotia, and although outhouses did not occupy a mandatory place in his early years, a deep affinity for them was developed at Grandmas house. Her outhouse was located over Meadow Pond brook which provided a soothing gurgle not unlike indoor facilities and was very reassuring to a small boy. For more than 25 years, Sherman has made a project of recording the fast disappearing structure of the outhouse. He also founded the Outhouse Preservation Society, of which you may become a member, and a world first: outhousemuseum.com.

Fortunately for his kingdom his young queen, Bywyd was as sharp as he was dull. She advised him in all matters of state, and benevolently attended concerned citizens and visiting dignitaries alike, always with a graceful nod to her husband and a quiet 'May it please your Majesty.' So it was that they ruled in peace for many years troubled only by the lack of Ysbryd-ane an heir to carry on the divine dragon blood of Gwirions ancestors. When Bywyd found herself full with child at last she rejoiced that their kingdom would be secured, their rule assuredly peaceful for the rest of their lives. And when the child was born, with raven black hair so dark against eyes as blue as lightning and skin as pale as snow, they called her Eirwyn and raised her to understand the five aspects of the dragon that she must must ever personify to rule her people. Before her sixth birthday, Eirwyn was already tired of the dusty words she had learned by rote. POSTED IN
